That Is What You Call Chaibrid

Our future will be Chaibrid. That’s when you do Hybrid Jewish. Zoom and in person. When we return to the Sanctuary and Chapel, we know there will be some who can not return or only with considerable difficulties. We can not just say “Sorry, we’re back to doing it live. We’ll miss you.” That is not Ohev Shalom!

Ohev Shalom celebrates the uniqueness of each individual and welcomes diversity within our sacred community.
Whatever holiday one celebrated last month, what a holiday gift it is to begin to see the light at the end of the tunnel. The vaccines are rolling out. I entered my name and pertinent details and I found out that I would be number forty-four out of a hundred to receive a shot. I grew up always wanting to be in the top percentiles but for this I am happy being at the end of the top fifty.

We do not yet know when life will return to normal and what the new normal will be exactly but we’re on our way. There are some things that we will surely take from “those pandemic days” with us into the new normal.

For me, one of these takeaways is my dear friend Zoom. I was invited to the Bar Mitzvah of my second cousin once removed. He has three older siblings whose B’nai Mitzvah I could not attend. We had B’nai Mitzvah scheduled on those dates but even if I would have been free, I would not have driven to the synagogue in the western suburbs. The official position of the Conservative Movement is the permissibility of driving to the closest synagogue and back home.

I was excited to be going to Jordi’s Bar Mitzvah. I was excited to see him on the Bimah of his synagogue and excited to see relatives at such a happy time. Yes, Zoom makes this possible. Family from the west coast or living abroad can attend. The same is true regarding Shivah services via Zoom. Being 3,000 miles away is as close to being next door on the screen.

I have loved the Tuesdays with Torah and Coffee with the Rabbi on Thursdays both at 2:00 pm. Having the classes on Zoom is not so much a concession as it is a convenience. In several ways, I prefer the Zoom.

One congregant who comes to both programs and to the Minyan each evening at 7:00 pm seldom came to Minyan at the synagogue. He told me that to drive twenty minutes to the synagogue for a brief service and home again doesn’t pay. And who wants to go out when its dark and cold in the winter months?

Our always creative Hebrew School leadership coined the term Chaibrid. That’s when you do Hybrid Jewish. Our future will be Chaibrid. We must invest somehow in a high-definition camera in the Sanctuary to replace our present low definition one. We need to invest in a new camera in the Adath Tikvah Montefiore Chapel since we have no camera there at all. When we return to the Sanctuary and Chapel, we know there will be some who can not return or can but with considerable difficulties. We can not just say “Sorry, we’re back to doing it live. We’ll miss you.” That is not Ohev Shalom!

We still must make it to and take the vaccine. These may be the toughest months following the Thanksgiving and holiday surges. Please be more vigilant now than ever before. Yes, it will be great to be together in the same physical space again and there will be times we will still be together via Zoom.

On a final note, I ordered a video cam for my PC last April and was told that it was on back order. I bought the camera from another source and all’s well that ends well. I thought I canceled the first order. On Monday morning December 7, the first camera arrived. How deeply touched I felt not being forgotten eight month’s later. I could easily have returned it but I will need it for my PC in the synagogue. There will be times when I will be in my study and will have a meeting via Zoom.

Yes, that is what you call Chaibrid! Here’s too all good things in 2021.

Ohev Shalom’s Hanukkah Happening!

December 6th

Hannukkah Pop Up and Latke Pick-up.
Are you as sick and tired as I am of sheltering in place, hunkering down, and avoiding friends and family while waiting for widespread distribution of a COVID-19 vaccine? Are you concerned about getting through the dark days of winter?

While you are home dreaming of the day that we can once again schlep to the mall or the movies or hang out with those we love, I cordially invite you to join in the warm and welcoming virtual comfort of what’s happening at Ohev Shalom.

The pandemic has forced most of us, and our employers, family, and social circles to reimagine how we spend our time. Nowhere is this more evident than at Ohev, where you can find activities, friends, and community merely by logging or calling in.

Worship at Ohev continues to follow traditional formats but, thanks to Rabbi, Cantor Annelise, Cantor Paul, and our minyan leaders, our virtual services have evolved and are more than just a platform for prayer and observance. We also find time to schmooze, kibbitz, and catch up with our friends who might be around the corner or far away. Many congregants choose to participate, and all enjoy the experience. I love, and miss, attending services in our physical building, but the camaraderie generated at each service is a source of strength for all who attend.

My invitation also covers our many educational and social events – there’s something scheduled most days and evenings and it’s a guarantee that there will be something to interest you. Fun, relaxation, learning, socializing – these are all essential for our mental health and well-being. I know things are stressful but take some time to enjoy some of our vast and entertaining programming!

Looking for something to give you some meaning and purpose until you can enjoy going out again? Try virtual volunteering. Yes, that’s a real thing and at Ohev we need volunteers. You can still make a difference even while hanging out at home. People engaged in virtual volunteering undertake a variety of activities, long and short term, while working remotely by computer or phone. Just reach out to me or to the synagogue office and you’ll make a big impact.

I know that many of you are on screens a lot, working, helping your children learn, trying to keep in touch with loved ones. Zoom fatigue is certainly a real thing. But so is quarantine fatigue. Zoom is free and easy to use. A survey conducted by Zoom and Forbes Insights found many silver linings in virtual communications including alleviating loneliness, improving well-being, and knowing you are part of a supportive community.

So, once again, I invite you to connect to something larger than yourself. Attend a service or event. Get involved. Volunteer. We will all get outside again, but in the meantime, why not take up my invitation? See you on Zoom!

Stay safe and be well.
Diane
The Irish novelist Frank Delaney remarked that “To understand and reconnect with our stories, the stories of our ancestors, is to build our own identities.” No better example than this is that of our January/February Congregant of the Month, Carol Gerson.

As the middle child of three growing up in Northeast Philadelphia, Carol and her family traveled often to New York City to visit family. It was there, while savoring Heidelbeerkuchen (blueberry pie) and Linzer Torte at Oma and Opa Dreifuss’s table in Washington Heights, that her family’s escape from Nazi Germany (including her then ten year-old mother) was recounted. In Grandma and Grandpa Levy’s kitchen in the Bronx, she enjoyed crunchy potato latkes while hearing how her grandparents arrived as children from Russia and Lithuania, and years later struggled to get their family through the Great Depression. The stories always ended with how grateful they were to be in America, where their children were safe, became college graduates with good lives, and were blessed with grandchildren. Surrounded by her loving family, Carol internalized the importance of freedom, equality, and opportunity for all.

Carol met her husband Mitch on a blind date when she was a senior at Girl’s High. It was her sister, Anne Berlin, also a member of Ohev Shalom, who knew that she had set up the perfect match. In 1975, after Carol graduated from Temple University and Mitch was attending Georgetown Law, the couple married. They have been blessed with three children; Matthew, Emily, and Jennifer. In 1983, Mitch and Carol and their then two little ones moved back home to the Philadelphia area from Washington D.C., and went “shul shopping.” They were looking for a progressive, egalitarian Conservative synagogue with a focus on Israel, where they could learn from clergy and congregants alike. At Ohev Shalom, they were welcomed warmly by everyone they met. They were most impressed by the young Rabbi who remembered their children’s names every time he saw them. That heartfelt, hamishe greeting, along with their two toddlers’ attraction to the kippah-wearing Bert & Ernie puppets at the monthly pre-school services, confirmed that they had found their religious home at Ohev. It is especially noteworthy that the friendships made by all of the Gerson children with their Ohev friends and classmates, beginning in their earliest days at Ohev, have flourished and remain an integral part of their present lives.

Carol became an active member of Ohev from the time that they joined. She first served as President of the Young Couples Club (obviously more than a few years ago!), then as a member of the Board of Directors, Program Chair, and Membership Chair. Her promise to Rabbi Perlstein was that she would remain as Membership Chair until she had signed up 100 new families. As she made friends with the real estate agents selling new homes in the developments which were popping up across Bucks County in the late 1980’s and 1990’s, it was not a difficult task to reach that century mark, attracting new families to such a warm, welcoming congregation.

Re-entering the corporate world while raising three children, Carol worked for 26 years in Human Resources Management for Aon plc, with responsibility for talent acquisition and development, Affirmative Action/EEO, compensation and budgeting, as well as acquisitions and divestitures. While HR director for Aon Affinity, she served as a representative to the United Way of Bucks County for many years. Her roles, which focused on promoting financial stability for families and helping children achieve their potential, raised her awareness of the wide variations in economic opportunity faced by different communities and individuals within Bucks County. During this time, Carol took a step back from her individual volunteer work but assisted husband Mitch in his fundraising and consciousness-raising for the JNF (Jewish National Fund), Israel Bonds, and the Magen David Adom - Israel’s national emergency, medical, disaster, ambulance, and blood bank service. Ohev’s commitment to Israel and its support of the organizations that are so important to Israel’s continued thriving as the Jewish homeland continue to be most gratifying to both Carol and Mitch. Carol also continued to attend the Adult Education classes and programs which were offered through the years.

Carol is recently and delightedly retired. She and her sister Anne and brother Arthur lovingly care for their 97 year-old father, Marvin Levy, who has recently made his home with Mitch and Carol. Upon her retirement, Carol jumped into volunteering with JEVS (Jewish Employment Vocational Services), assisting refugees and immigrants with ESL (English as a Second Language) and job search skills, working on get-out-the-vote activities, and taking classes at Delaware Valley (Continued on page 5)
University’s senior program. She recently started attending Ohev’s Leadership Development program and has already contributed greatly by her very presence.

The volunteer activity which Carol considers most important is her work on Ohev’s Social Action Committee. The Rabbinical Assembly has called on its members to form relationships across lines of faith and race, and to be in solidarity with movements for racial justice and true equality. Thus, Ohev’s mission of assuming a “leadership role in the performance of Tzedakah, both within the congregation and in the larger community,” as well as Rabbi’s session this summer on issues of inequality across America, called her to action. She now leads an Ohev initiative in which several Ohev congregants are reaching out to Black communities of faith for the purpose of building relationships and providing opportunities to listen and learn about the Black community’s varied experience. After gathering information from various resources, such as the ADL, The Peace Center, and the Jewish Community Relations Council, the committee has had conversations with several Black churches to explore mutual interests. At the time of the writing of this article, Carol and her committee have developed a budding relationship with an area A.M.E. pastor.

Reflecting upon the last 37 years as dedicated and devoted members of Ohev Shalom, Carol and Mitch remember with joy a baby naming, three B’nai Mitzvah and Confirmations on Ohev’s bimah, Mitch’s many Torah readings and divrei Torah, and their recently celebrated 45th wedding anniversary, all with Ohev as the center of these wonderful family celebrations. There is one simcha, however, that stands out for Carol. Rabbi honored her Oma (grandmother) Lina Dreifuss with a Rosh Hashanah aliyah in honor of her 100th birthday. She was so delighted, as she reported each subsequent year to her adoring granddaughter, that “the Rabbi called ME on my birthday! What an honor!” Oma Lina remained a member of Ohev until her passing, four days short of 107 years old.

Up until this past year, Carol and Mitch enjoyed traveling to some amazing places; Japan-Korea-China, the Mediterranean, and Alaska to name a few. Their most inspiring trip, without a doubt, was the Ohev trip to Israel in 2012, led by Cantor Paul Frimark. Carol and Mitch are now proud and joyful grandparents, and, due to COVID, very active users of Zoom and Face Time with their five grandchildren scattered through Boston, New York City, and Bucks County.

Carol is honored to be recognized as Congregant of the Month, particularly as it confirms the importance that Ohev places on the Social Action Committee’s work as previously mentioned; that is, reaching out to a Black community of faith to build bridges across races and faiths. By doing this, we are performing Tikun Olam - the repairing of the world, and bearing responsibility for the welfare of society at large.

Mazal tov to Carol Gerson – our January / February Congregant of the Month!
Incorporate it into our religious school model. One goal was to concept of shared power and honed in on ways that I could some thought and introspection, I found myself drawn to this powers where no one person has an abundance of power. After In essence, Jewish leadership is meant to be a system of shared patterned communal structures according to the system of ketarim, or a system of shared powers, spoke to me and challenged my views of Jewish leadership. I learned that Jewish communities patterned communal structures according to the system of ketarim, which are separated and circumscribed powers.

In essence, Jewish leadership is meant to be a system of shared powers where no one person has an abundance of power. After some thought and introspection, I found myself drawn to this concept of shared power and honed in on ways that I could incorporate it into our religious school model. One goal was to empower teachers to make curriculum decisions on their own, keeping their students and pedagogy in mind, instead of asking me what to do. Taking a step back to digest and process what I learned, instead of reacting and wanting to fix things immediately, quickly became my new approach.

Collaboration is an area of my leadership skill set where I thought I excelled. Possessing the ability to bring individuals together to work cohesively and collaboratively on projects was a strength. The collaboration module of the certificate program again seemed to challenge my view of how I am seen as a leader, collaborator as well as the perception of my ability to facilitate collaboration within the education team. There is so much more to team organization than just saying we are on a team. Effective teams can be classified into several types. Understanding the three types of teams, creative, tactical and problem solving helped me to categorize the types of teams I lead and how I can best facilitate collaboration.

Our religious school team of educators work independently of each other but at the same time we work closely together. We share a purpose, to deliver curriculum, educate students and find connections to help build their relationship with Judaism. As the leader, it’s my job to ensure our team is successful. Through the collaboration model, I learned that the end result, what a team accomplishes, is not as important as the foundation of trust that I build as the leader. A great example of the application of this concept is through our response to the pandemic.

In March, when we were forced to recreate our Hebrew School program virtually, everyone was in a panic. As the leader, I needed to ensure our education team that I was with them every step of the way and would do whatever I could to ensure their success pivoting to an all online program. While our vulnerability at this time was exposed, our experience was shared within the team, and I reassured everyone that we were in this together. My overall goal was to lead by example and stress to the team they were supported and important to the success of the school.

Effective communication goes hand in hand with leadership and collaboration. The skills covered in the communication module of the certificate program overlapped with many that were explored through the collaboration module. Though there were overlaps, the importance of acquiring good listening skills and effectively coaching team members is paramount. I found myself immediately applying several of the concepts we discussed during this module. These concepts include listening from the perspective of the individual, active listening and listening through context to understand if anything else was going on with the speaker.

Another important reflection of my growth from participation in the Jewish Leadership for Educators program came through my interactions with my professional coach. Further reflecting, I realize that these coaching sessions were invaluable to my growth as a leader. Throughout the sessions, my coach encouraged me to focus on my personal growth within my professional career. We spent a great deal of time discussing the language that I used to describe myself as a leader while at the same time learning to accept and take pride in my accomplishments. A huge step for me was the addition of the title “minahelet” to how I was addressed within the school and synagogue.

Conscious leadership, strong commitment to common goals, mutual respect and effective communication. These concepts are just a few that I embraced in an effort to further educate myself and improve my leadership skill set. Being an effective leader requires an individual to demonstrate their ability to motivate, communicate effectively, make difficult decisions as well as recognize and celebrate success. Through the Spertus Certificate in Jewish Leadership for Educators, I was personally able to improve my abilities in these areas plus enhance several other qualities. Continually striving to learn and further educate myself as a leader and role model, is not just what I am but who I am.
Dear Ohev Friends,

In these difficult times, I hope that you are well, and safe, and sometime soon we will be able to get together in person. We planned many different programs for your enjoyment.

Our first program of the year “The Fragrant History of Jews and Spices – From Biblical Times to Today” with Aliza Green was amazing. She is a celebrated chef with immense knowledge in food history. I can’t wait to have her at Ohev for a real cooking and eating session in the future. Dr. Asaf Romirowsky’s session “The Future of US – Israel Relations” was very thought-provoking and timely. The movie “My Australia” that we brought to you in partnership with Bucks County Kehillah was received with great interest - we had over 270 people(!) who watched the movie followed by Rabbi Perlstein’s discussion session. Dr. Michael Iseman’s 4 session archaeology classes were innovative and had a steady following. Then we had the engaging speaker and compassionate physician Dr. Jonathan Winkle back again to speak to us on December 7th on “Lifeworld Turned Upside Down - Medicine and Healing in the Age of COVID-19”.

These are wonderful opportunities for us to get together virtually, listen to fascinating speakers, and enjoy. No previous knowledge is necessary to attend any of the Adult Ed classes.

- Don’t miss Marvin Kreithen’s “Modern Jewish Artists” in January 14, Dr. Reena S. Friedman’s four-session “American Jews and Social Justice” on February 2, 11, 18 and 23.
- On March 15 we will have Dr. Michael Schatz for a virtual “Jewish Philadelphia” program, followed by an actual bus tour of “Jewish Philadelphia” on April 25.

I hope 2021 will be a great year for all of you!

There was a good deal of activity on the Ohev Shalom playground the first two Sundays of November. However, instead of the expected sights and sounds of children playing, people passing by heard power tools and hammering, and saw the construction of a new gaga pit. This work was being done for Reed Stoltz’s Eagle Scout project. Reed, who was part of the Ohev Shalom Religious School for many years and became a Bar Mitzvah at Ohev in 2017, is currently a Life Scout in Holland-based Boy Scouts of America (BSA) Troop 147.

Gaga (Hebrew: גע גע literally 'touch touch') originated in Israel and is similar to dodgeball. It’s played in an 8-sided "pit" where players hit the ball at each other with their hands and are eliminated if the ball strikes them on or below the knee, with the objective of being the last person standing.

An Eagle Scout project is the culmination of a Scout’s leadership training and requires a significant effort and must benefit an organization other than the BSA. Reed knew as he considered what to do that he wanted to use the opportunity to give something back to a place that gave so much to him since the time he was in Kindergarten. He worked with Barbara Glickman and Hilary Leboff to identify a specific project and when they asked for a gaga pit, Reed began planning.

The project was originally supposed to take place in early April but was delayed due to the coronavirus pandemic. Reed was ultimately given the go-ahead to begin the project this Fall. He followed strict safety guidelines to keep everyone who worked on the gaga pit safe, including limiting the number of participants at a given time, requiring masks and physical distancing, and taking temperatures as participants arrived. In all, the project required more than 70 person-hours to complete.

Reed would like to thank everyone who contributed to the project during his fundraising sessions at Ohev this past Winter. His hope is that the gaga pit will get a lot of use and bring great joy to everyone who uses it. While the project was a great learning experience and opportunity for Reed to show leadership, as the commemorative plaque on the gaga pit reads, it’s “for the youth of Ohev Shalom.”

Inclusion B’Kavod

The Inclusion B’Kavod Committee invites you to join two special events in February:

- A Virtual Resource Fair! Monday February 1, 2021 at 7:30 pm. Use the weekday Minyan Zoom link.
- Inclusion Shabbat Saturday February 13, 2021 at 10 am. Use the Shabbat morning Zoom link.

Has our mission of inclusion made a difference for you? We invite you to take a role in our service. Please let us know if you would like to participate at inclusionbkavod@ohev.org and we will contact you.

Men’s Club

Greetings to all of you! Hope your Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, and New Years’ celebrations were happy regardless of how you spent them. Our Men’s Club continues to be busy virtually for now and hopefully live and in person in the future. Our virtual speakers have kept everyone well informed and involved with new and exciting programs. Remember, all are welcome to attend our events!

We hope you learned how to keep your identity safe when David Shallcross from the Pennsylvania Attorney General’s office and spoke to us on December 14th.

Upcoming events include the following:

- The Anti-Defamation League (ADL) will be presenting the topic, The Disease of Hate, on January 11th. An important presentation during these tenuous times. Be sure to tune in.
- January 25th Jonathan Poritsky will inform us about the how’s and where’s of television production.
- On February 8th, Steven LeCompt, the Northampton Township Police Chief will be discussing local policing.
- Watch for further information regarding our annual World Wide Wrap and our annual Holocaust Memorial Candle Project.

We continue to update our Men’s Club calendar so keep an eye out for our emails and information in O-Happenings and OH-Events! Let us know of any speakers or programs that you have access to and would like us to look into. On behalf of our Men’s Club, we wish you and your families a happy and healthy 2021! Stay safe and well!

Steve and Dave.

FOR EVERYONE

Ohev Shalom, through the merger with Adath Tikvah-Montefiore (ATM), has acquired cemetery plots at King David Memorial Park. There are a limited number of grave sites, arranged in plots of four graves. At this time, there is an opportunity to purchase family graves in contiguous plots. Individual grave sites can also be purchased. Grave sites are $1800 each. This is considerably more affordable than other area cemeteries.

For more information, please contact Hilary Leboff at hleboff@ohev.org.

Presidents’ Message

Happy New Year to all my SISTERS! Are you tired of COVID 19? You are not alone, we are tired of dealing with the fear of illness and death, tired of wearing masks, not getting to be with friends and family, when we actually need it most. We had to zoom Passover, High Holidays, Thanksgiving dinners, Hanukkah celebrations and New Years Eve. We have attended Zoom funerals, and shiva minyans. But as we start 2021 let’s hope the vaccine will be reaching us all shortly.

Sisterhood is here to help you feel linked to your friends, especially as the winter is upon us and the nights are longer. We are providing the connection you need, the ability to see people, even if by zoom, so you are not isolated. Know that no woman is alone.

SISTERHOOD is here. If you love those Monday mornings @ 11am Zoom sessions, we are continuing those - check the www.ohev.org for a complete list. Pajama BINGO will be virtual for two evenings - January 5th and January 21st, and we will continue to provide Virtual programming throughout the winter and spring of 2021. If you need anything, Sisterhood is here, email me: ivy.graff@gmail.com.

Please remember wear your mask and stay safe.

B’shalom, Ivy Graff
